

Stretch Your Imagination

Imagination creates visualized goals; and no one can be any greater the personal vision they have for themselves!

When nothing is certain, anything is possible!

How much money would you like to earn?

What personality traits would you like to develop?

How much money would you like to save?

Whats something exciting you want to learn or teach?

What habits would you like to develop or like to break?

What are some activities you would like to do for fun, a hobby or recreation?

What message or image would you like to communicate to others?

What specific improvements would you make in your physical condition?

What things or situations do you want to remove from your life?

What spiritual goals would you like to obtain?

What are you most important goals for your career, family, health, education?

How would you want to give back to your community?

What is the single most important goal you would like to accomplished in your life in the next two years?

Something so important, you can't leave it to chance!
